Cancer Drive To Get Underway In Crawford County April 1st

Dr. Claude R. Keyport, medical advisor of Crawford County Cancer Society, today endorsed the 1953 American Cancer Society crusade, which opens here April 1st. Dr. Keyport, said that his endorsement of the drive was a personal one but that he felt it was substantially representative of the whole medical profession. "Doctors everywhere," he said, "are among the first to realize the terrible pressure that cancer exerts on the lives of all of us. Cancer control can be achieved only by the utmost cooperation of public and medical profession. "If doctors are to diagnose and cure early cancer, there must be a high incidence of cancer alertness among people in general. The layman must make the first step in cancer control by going to a doctor. After that, the responsibility is ours. "A periodic physical examination is one way in which patients guard against cancer. The other is to know the danger signals and promptly consult the family physician when one appears. "One objective of the American Cancer Society campaign is to teach people more about cancer's early symptoms. To this endeavor the medical profession gives its enthusiastic endorsement. "The ACS drive here, it was previously pointed out, is a joint fund-raising and educational venture to seek continued public support of the triple attack on cancer through research, education and service to cancer patients. Dr. Keyport also made an appeal for full support of the fund-raising aspect of the drive. "All of us must give what we can to support this work," he said. "Only one out of four cancer patients is being saved today. Another one could be through early detection and prompt treatment. Lives of the other two, for the present, remain in the hands of the scientists who are seeking means of earlier diagnosis and methods of curing even advanced cancer. "A maximum effort of service and giving," he concluded, "will be required to reduce cancer from its firmly entrenched position as the second most frequent cause of death."

Bowling Alley Drive Advances

With the announcement this week by finance chairman Robert F. Neffie that the Grayling Legion Post 106 had reached $10,500 in their drive towards a goal of $25,000 it was also announced that the drive would begin with the general public this weekend. Although the entire body of veterans in Crawford County have not all been contacted as yet, it was felt that time forced the program to begin the public contact. Thus far, the veterans in the county have subscribed about one third of the total and Chairman Neffie said that at least another $5,000 in pledges were expected from the veterans yet to be called on. Veterans have subscribed an average of $153 each, included in the total are 7,000 pledges. The subscriptions can be made in two different methods, it was pointed out. Either cash by May

Novak Plans New Horseshoe Lake Inn

Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Novak announced plans this week to rebuild the Horseshoe Lake Inn, located on the site of the former building, totally destroyed by fire March 2. The popular nightclub located on US-27 between Grayling and Gaylord, will be larger and more modern, although continuing the rustic motif throughout, Mr. Novak said. Mr. Novak planned to begin filling the former site to allow for laying the cement foundation as soon as the weather breaks. The new structure, which will house the bar, dance floor and kitchen will be 110 feet long by 40 feet wide. The exterior is to be of Tennessee ledge stone half way, and rubbed mahogany or oak to the roof. The entrance way will be a gabled roof effect, and interior in knotty pine. Mr. Novak plans to have the building sufficiently completed to open for the Memorial holiday weekend in May, with finishing touches to be completed throughout the summer. The dining room and living quarters will be constructed later.

Grayling Group To Pentagon Session On Air Base Move

Three Grayling men are leaving today for Washington, D. C. where they will appear Friday morning at a session in the Pentagon on the proposed moving of the Air National Guard training site from Grayling to Alpena. Going to Washington are Don Grayling for the meeting are Don Grayling, Grant Thompson and Robert F. Neffie. They will be joined in Detroit by Colonel Floyd Evans of Lansing who will accompany them to the Washington conference. The Grayling spokesmen are loaded with information such as costs and other pertinent facts in the proposed change. They expect to prove to officers of the National Guard Bureau that a large saving can be made by keeping the Air National Guard training site at the Grayling Air Base. The only item needed at the Grayling Air Base, it was said, was a longer strip from which planes could take off and land and a larger apron area and hangar. The Alpena port needs just about everything to make it a first class base for training. It would be almost like starting from scratch, a Grayling spokesman said. Last summer, 1,200 Air National Guardsmen from Ohio trained at the Grayling Base from July 19 to August 3 and 450 airmen from Illinois arrived at the Base on August 10 for two weeks of field training. This summer, according to the latest information about 3,100 Air National Guardsmen of three Wings will train at the Grayling Base. From July 5 to 19, members of the 123rd Wing from Kentucky, North Carolina and West Virginia, about 650 to 700 strong will train here with the Ohio Wing scheduled to come in for training from July 25 to August 6. This group will number about 1,700 men and officers. On August 15, the Michigan Wing which was released from Federal service last year will come in for training. The Michigan Wing will number from 650 to 700 men and officers.

Hijacking The States...

The efforts of politicians in Washington to destroy states rights have become increasingly brazen in the past decade.

The recent political play to rob the states of their tidelands capped the climax. Almost the last act of Mr. Truman was an attempt to reverse the action of Congress, by issuing an executive order setting aside the tidelands-oil areas as a naval reserve.

If one president is allowed to hijack states of their oil lands for the federal government, why can't another president hijack their timber lands, wheat lands, coal lands or anything else which "he" deems essential for federal reserves?

The excuse for such undemocratic action always is that some big, bad corporations want to rob the helpless states, so the federal government should rob them first. To swallow such baloney one has to accept the theory that "the king can do no wrong."

As a matter of fact and record, the states can deal with corporations to which they lease lands, but they can't even make leases when their lands are placed in federal reserves. Their tax revenues are destroyed and development too often stops.

The enormous quantities of oil products which this nation needs have always been and are being supplied by a highly progressive and competitive industry, and it would still have to supply our gasoline and oil whatever owned the tidelands. For defense purposes the government would always have first call. Then why rob the states of their natural resources? That would not increase the oil supply by one gallon—it would probably decrease it by red tape and killing incentive to produce.

Since the caveman, Civilization has come a long way. We hear, see and talk to the four corners of the world. We travel fast, by land sea and air. Machines do our work that used to make our backs ache. We build sky towering buildings that house more people than some small cities. Many cities have a larger population than some nations, are lighted up equal to daylight. For all of this we can only take credit for the work we do. Nature supplies the raw material, blue prints and laws how to use them. We can not force a tree to produce more fruit by using the wrong method. Nature is very economical, too, it wastes nothing. If we get careless and wasteful we soon find ourselves doing without. It was a wise man that first said, "Waste not, want not." All things crumble to dust and pass through a cycle of Nature and are used over and over again. Hunter's AuSable Dairy is having a bargain sale. They are selling good Crawford County produced Milk.

Ballot Group Wins Award

The nation-wide non-partisan register and vote campaign, "Ballot Battalion," spearheaded by the Kiwanis Club of Grayling in cooperation with all civic-minded, patriotic groups during 1952, has been awarded the Freedoms Foundation George Washington Honor Medal, and also a major prize from The American Heritage Foundation, Don K. Gothro, club president, announced today.

These awards were won by Kiwanis International in competition with hundreds of entries to the awards juried by the Freedoms Foundation of Valley Forge, Pa., and The American Heritage Foundation of New York City. The Freedoms Foundation Award gives to Kiwanis the distinction of being recognized by this organization for the third consecutive year for its Americanism programs. Both organizations are non-profit, non-political, and non-sectarian and actively work to promote more personal participation in citizenship and the furthering of the American way of life.

Through the "Ballot Battalion" program, Kiwanis International presented a plan for coordinating the efforts of all local civic, professional and fraternal groups in every Kiwanis community throughout the United States in an all-out, non-partisan "get out the vote" campaign.

In announcing these awards, club president Gothro said, "The Kiwanis Club of Grayling believes that the success of the 'Ballot Battalion' demonstrates the inherent desire on the part of the citizenry of our country to be governed by elected officials chosen by the highest possible percentage of the eligible voters. We are very grateful to all local citizens, the press and radio for their support in assuring the success of this program. We are confident that the American people will continue to exhibit a keen interest and increased participation in matters of government on all levels."

The local "Ballot Battalion" campaign was under the general chairmanship of Art Clough and was a phase of the general participation by the more than 3,500 Kiwanis clubs, representing over 25,000 business and professional leaders throughout the United States and Canada.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To the Editor:
In connection with the recent controversial and questionable action on the part of the Western Conference, it occurs to me that Mr. Robert W. Service might have covered the matter somewhat as follows:

THE PROBATION ON MSC
(with apologies of R. W. Service)

There are strange things done to the boys of Munn.

The boys who are "colled" by gold;
The Sporting trails have their "secret tales,"
That make Wilson's blood run cold;
The Capitol lights have seen queer sights.
But the queerest they ever did see,
Was the time the men who run the Big Ten,
Probated MSC.
